- Drink-driving and drugs at work
- Environmental
- Air
- Land
- Water
- Health and safety
- Minerals
- Planning and highways
- Road transport law
- Waste management
- Wind energy

Our innovative thinking and proactive approach ensure the best possible result for each of our clients.

Consultancy for the road haulage industry

At Dyne Solicitors, we offer consultancy to the road haulage industry aimed at operator compliance. Licensing requirements are a key consideration.

Our consultancy service to the road haulage industry builds on our extensive experience in acting for and defending road haulage operators in regulatory law-related prosecutions - principally road traffic, environmental and health and safety.

We also represent operators, transport managers and drivers at disciplinary public inquiries.

Using our road haulage consultancy service will give you peace of mind, while providing a time and cost-effective way to eliminate compliance-related investigations and disciplinary or enforcement action and prosecutions.

Drink-driving and drugs at work legal services

Dyne Solicitors recognise that drink-driving and drugs at work are serious health and safety issues that no business can afford to ignore.

We understand the problems that a drink-driving conviction can cause for an employer, from losing a top driver to the potential loss of livelihood in a small operation.

Statistics show that any business concerned with occupational driving needs to be aware of and prepared for this issue:

- In 2004 96,238 people were convicted of drink driving in England and Wales
- A 2006 YouGov poll found that one in ten male road users said they had, or might have, driven for business while over the legal alcohol limit.

We can provide practical and timely advice for business owners and managers on a range of drink-driving and motoring offence issues.

Drugs at work represent another problem that employers need to anticipate. It is illegal for a driver to be under the influence of drugs while driving, attempting to drive or when in charge of a vehicle but drug misuse in any work context can lead to absenteeism, reduced productivity and increased risk of accidents, as well as potentially damaging your worker's health.

We can advise on proactive measures to protect your business from drink and drug abuse, including substance misuse policies. In this way, individuals stay safe and your business is less likely to be adversely affected.

Our drink-driving and drugs at work legal services include

- Advice on breath and blood tests and the accuracy of readings
- Advice on the legality of arrests and what to do at the police station, including the right to silence
- Defence-related advocacy in the Magistrates Court
- Advice on disciplinary action and employee dismissals
- Advice on employers' responsibilities under health and safety legislation, including risk assessments and supervision of drivers
- Drawing up comprehensive occupational driving policies
- Drafting and implementing a clear and comprehensive policy for your business on drug and alcohol misuse

Environmental legal services: air

At Dyne Solicitors, our environmental legal services for air issues include advising on Integrated Pollution Prevention and Control (IPPC) permitting and defending prosecutions concerning air pollution and breach of consents.

We can advise operators on the interaction between planning and IPPC regimes and negotiate on their behalf with regulators.

Our air-related environmental legal services include

- IPPC permitting for processes
- Defending air pollution cases
- Defending breaches of consents

Environmental legal services: land

At Dyne Solicitors, our environmental legal services for land issues include advising on regulatory requirements and permitting, to help our clients avoid common pitfalls and the risk of prosecution.

We also advise on the interaction of regulatory regimes, which is particularly important in redeveloping brownfield sites and contaminated land.

We are experienced in the purchase, leasing and sale of “difficult” sites, using our comprehensive knowledge of regulations concerning the ownership and development of contaminated land.

We work to provide innovative solutions to maximise the potential of land assets.

Our land-related environmental legal services include

- Planning advice
- Liaison with environmental consultants
- Liaison with environmental insurance brokers
- Negotiations with lenders and funders
- Sale and acquisition of sites
- Warranties and insurance

For more information on our environmental legal services, please contact us.

Environmental legal services: water

At Dyne Solicitors, we recognised that water-related environmental law is a major issue for many of our clients.

We act in numerous cases involving prosecutions in connection with water pollution and breach of discharge consents.

We have experience in the operation of water treatment plants and can offer comprehensive criminal litigation support in this specialist area.

Our water-related environmental legal services include

- Defending water pollution prosecutions brought under the Water Resources Act
- Defending breach of consent prosecutions brought under the Water Resources Act and the Water Industry Act
- Advising on legal environmental issues relating to water treatment
- Advising on legal environmental issues relating to slurry and sewage sludge spreading

Health and safety legal services

Dyne Solicitors are specialists in providing health and safety legal services to sectors including demolition, transport, plant and mobile crane operations, processing plants and quarries.

We can provide prompt and timely support immediately following a health and safety incident and assist in accident investigations.

We are particularly experienced in issues involving fly rock – rock propelled from a blast area by the force of an explosion – and other industrial accidents and have acted in a number of defended cases.

Dyne Solicitors work with health and safety consultants in the north-west of England and promote and organise regular health and safety consultancy meetings.

We also support a proactive approach to companies on health and safety issues by providing in-house training for senior managers.

Our health and safety legal services include

- Advising on health and safety systems and record keeping
- Carrying out legal audits and advice on monitoring and auditing systems
- Appealing on your behalf against “stop” and “improvement” notices
- Assisting you immediately after a health and safety incident

- Assisting you with accident investigation
- Representing you in any court in which criminal proceedings may be brought
- Providing in-house training for directors and managers

Ecolaw

Ecolaw is an online service uniting Ecologists with people requiring ecological services across the UK and Ireland. Dyne Solicitors Limited work with Richards, Moorehead and Laing Limited (RML), to provide this service.

The website www.ecolaw.org.uk enables you to access a comprehensive database of UK and Irish protected species, the legislation which applies to each one, and potential mitigation to assist in situations where the species may prove an issue.

If you are an ecologist, it also enables you to put your CV in front of developers who may be faced with ecological issues and to publish your case studies and papers.

If you are a land manager, planner or developer, it will ensure that you are compliant with ecological law well in advance of any work you may consider undertaking.
